Subloom

A little clarity.
Room to breathe.

A calmer place for your subscriptions.

The fixed identity, the rules, and the assets to use it well.

A familiar bloom, made consistent.

Four soft petals. One familiar bloom. A calm recurring rhythm.

Fourfold Bloom

Four matching petals turn around one shared center. The rounded pinwheel preserves the four-petal mark you already know.

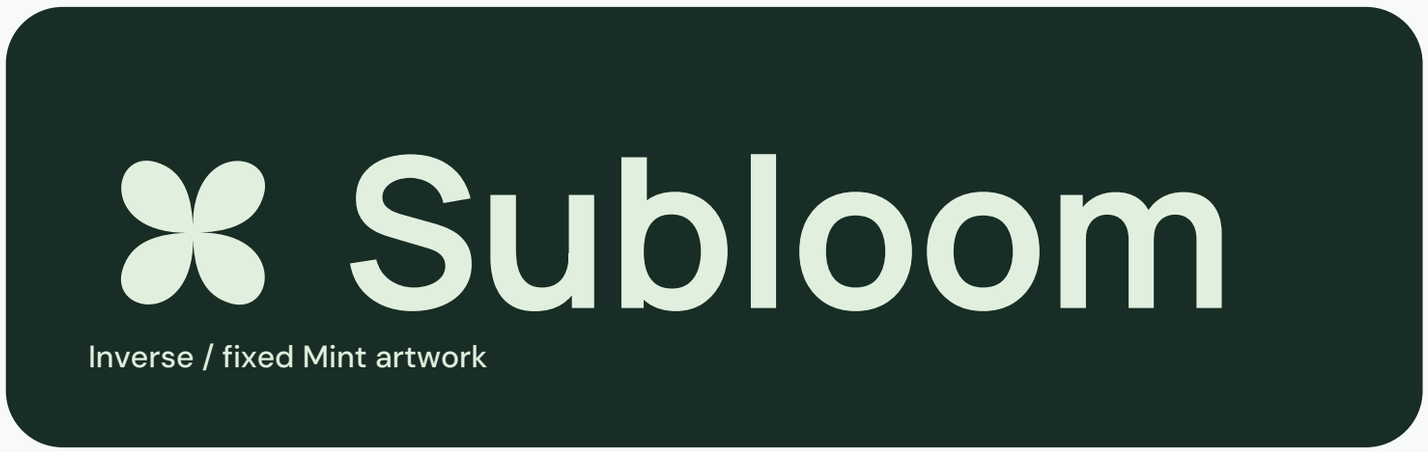

The soft shape carries the bloom in Subloom. Quarter turns give it a gentle recurring rhythm, while the fixed silhouette makes it recognizable across every surface.

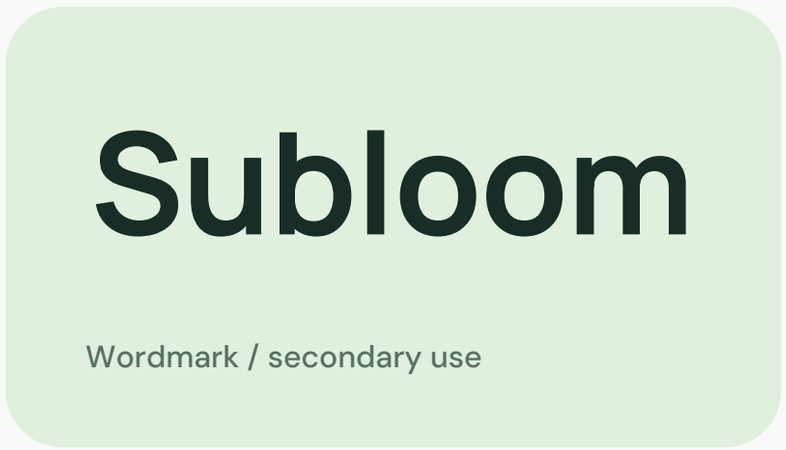

Built from the original Subloom four-petal header mark.

One master. Every context.

Use supplied outlines. Do not retype, add a period, or rebuild the spacing.

Let the mark breathe.

Clear space = one quarter of the 64-unit symbol design box.

The light field represents required outside clear space.

16 px

Minimum symbol box.
Prefer 24–32 px in UI.

140 px

Minimum full lockup width.
Prefer 160–180 px in headers.

At 32 px high, leave at least 8 px around the full lockup. The transparent margin inside the SVG is not a substitute. Give interactive logos a 44 px touch target.

Motion should explain the action.

Use 150–240 ms feedback. Respect reduced motion. Keep final values readable. Never spin the logo, pulse it endlessly or animate the petals separately.

Recognizable at every size.

Why Subloom Take a look Open app

Subloom

Your space.
At your pace.

App icon / opaque square source

The app header, website, launcher icon and favicon all share exactly the same symbol. Only the container and approved color treatment change.

Protect the shape.

No substitutes

Retire the eight-petal icon and sprout. Use the master artwork.

No restyling

No gradients, outline versions, shadows, extra petals or trailing period.

No distortion

Do not stretch, rotate, crop, split or rearrange the petals.

No accent drift

Personal app themes never recolor the fixed Green / Mint identity.

Use a quiet, high-contrast field. Keep the required clear space. The same rules apply to sponsors, presentations, app screens and future campaigns.

Keep it consistent from here.

Use the assets. Do not redraw them.

Regenerate together. Check together.

The app and website consume generated geometry; the manifest detects stale or changed exports.
